

Belarus Confirmed as New S-400 Operator

In a defence procurement announcement this week, Belarus was confirmed as a new operator of the Russian S-400 Triumf long-range surface-to-air missile system.

The S-400 air defence system has now been fielded by Belarus to protect its western airspace, joining existing operators. Officials described the delivery as a strengthening of integrated air defence.